

Just Released!
Who's Got Dibs on Your Kids?
by Betty Pfeiffer

This new book exposes the misinformation kids learn and the many ways they receive it. Who's Got Dibs on Your Kids? heightens parents' awareness, and gives them some tools to fight back.

The publisher has provided the following review:

This nonfiction guide is to unveil society's perspective on several areas of life (religion, parental rights, origins of life) and how they differ from God's perspective on these matters. The hope is that parents, while reading this book, realize they still have the abilities from God to keep their children's minds clear from society's sins and firmly in God's hands.

- A book focused on society's seduction of young children into sin and pride will cater to the growing discomfort of parents toward this disheartening trend among children. The topic will be an enticement to readers to see what the author's advice is, enhanced by the book's clever title.
- The insight and advice from the author is dispersed in a helpful and uncomplicated manner to where parents reading will be able to identify the advice right away and know how to implement it into their parenting skills. The Chapter Challenge sections will also encourage more reader interaction as well.
- Several topics are explored pertaining to educating children (sex education, social media, viewpoints toward society and the government); each chapter topic is filled with highly regarded research, personal stories and insight to compare society's views with God's views. Readers will find several topics they wish to discuss with their children and the right approaches to take to keep God's views at the front of their discussions.

Who's Got Dibs on Your Kids is available in paperback at Amazon for $16.49 (Kindle Edition $8.99) and at Barnes & Noble for $14.84 (Nook Book $8.99)*. You can purchase it directly from Betty on the website www.DibsOnYourKids.com. Her website provides the Table of Contents. You can read the Introduction, Chapter 1 and part of Chapter 2 using the "Look Inside" feature at Amazon.

For more information call Betty Pfeiffer at (480) 888-8521 or email her at bettyj54@qwest.net. Ask Betty about a presentation for your group.

*Prices subject to change

Just Released!
Who's Got Dibs on Your Kids?
by Betty Pfeiffer

This new book exposes the misinformation kids learn and the many ways they receive it. Who's Got Dibs on Your Kids? heightens parents' awareness, and gives them some tools to fight back.

The publisher has provided the following review:

This nonfiction guide is to unveil society's perspective on several areas of life (religion, parental rights, origins of life) and how they differ from God's perspective on these matters. The hope is that parents, while reading this book, realize they still have the abilities from God to keep their children's minds clear from society's sins and firmly in God's hands.

- A book focused on society's seduction of young children into sin and pride will cater to the growing discomfort of parents toward this disheartening trend among children. The topic will be an enticement to readers to see what the author's advice is, enhanced by the book's clever title.
- The insight and advice from the author is dispersed in a helpful and uncomplicated manner to where parents reading will be able to identify the advice right away and know how to implement it into their parenting skills. The Chapter Challenge sections will also encourage more reader interaction as well.
- Several topics are explored pertaining to educating children (sex education, social media, viewpoints toward society and the government); each chapter topic is filled with highly regarded research, personal stories and insight to compare society's views with God's views. Readers will find several topics they wish to discuss with their children and the right approaches to take to keep God's views at the front of their discussions.

Who's Got Dibs on Your Kids is available in paperback at Amazon for $16.49 (Kindle Edition $8.99) and at Barnes & Noble for $14.84 (Nook Book $8.99)*. You can purchase it directly from Betty on the website www.DibsOnYourKids.com. Her website provides the Table of Contents. You can read the Introduction, Chapter 1 and part of Chapter 2 using the "Look Inside" feature at Amazon.

For more information call Betty Pfeiffer at (480) 888-8521 or email her at bettyj54@qwest.net. Ask Betty about a presentation for your group.

*Prices subject to change